A pictograph is a painting on a rock, and a petroglyph is a carving on a rock. They are impressive indications of prehistoric peoples along the Columbia River. These images are protected under state and federal laws, and they should not be disturbed or defaced. Samples of pictographs can be found at the Ginkgo State Park Interpretive Center in Vantage, WA.

Hunters enjoy excellent hunting for ducks and geese in areas adjacent to the Columbia River.

Fishermen are attracted to this portion of the Columbia River for Chinook, Walleye and Small Mouth Bass.
